

After sorting out politics (Hitler Moustache), religion (Christ on a Bike), love (What is Love, Anyway?) and penises (Talking Cock) Herring's tenth consecutive stand-up show tackles the undiscovered country from whose bourn no traveller returns (apart from Jesus and that canoe bloke).

Is death a tragedy or an excuse to have an extended lie-in? Are we snuffed out or forced to endure eternity without bodily pleasures? Death is inevitable, so let's laugh in its face while our hearts still beat and our jaws are still attached.

Extras on this double disc set include the full Death episode of the internet TV series Richard Herring's Meaning of Life. We've also got cut routines, an audio recording of the show from the Edinburgh festival, a featurette on how the cover was made and lots more fun stuff.

Oh – and we have bowed to the pressure of Me2, and present the third Chris Evans (NTO) snooker trophy in audio format. Also – from deep in the Herring vaults, we present Waving At Pigeons – a half hour video of his Oxford University Revue show.
